LABOR TROUBLES.

No Material Change in the Reading Strike. Other Labor News.

READING, Pa., Jan. 19.—It now transpires that the memorial sent to President Corbin, i of the Reading railway, was only signed by the committee of city councils. Isaac Mc-Hose, a prominent iron manufacturers and chairman of the committee, appointed by the board of trade, declined to sign the document, and said the board of trade would have nothing to do with it. Mr. McHose addressed a letter to Mayor Kenney, accasing him of attempting as a Knight of Labor to make the memorial a one-sided affair.

As an excuse for not signing the memorial McHose, it is said, first alleged that he desired to have an exact copy of it to be transmitted to the miners in the coal regions. The action of McHose did not leak out until a very late hour last night and has created quite a sensation. Mayor Kenney says: The reason that McHose refused to sign the memorial is because he was not given more CINCINNATI, Jan. 19.—Everybody was behind time this morning in the Hopkins trial. J. Harry Watters, the first witness, was fifteen minutes late. The crowd was large, eagerly anticipating something sensational. There was a liberal sprinking of ladies.

She was sick at home, Harper sent Charley Hopkins to her, saying that he could be trusted, but the latter kept and opened the letters. The checks were signed E. L. H. and were three in number. They were drawn on the Fidelity for $200,000, $200,000 and $300,000. Wesley Kocoreken, an aged Bohemian farmor, living about ten miles northwest of Tabor, was found on Friday morning in Creek Valley frozen to death. His team had not been found yet. A man who came by the Cooley ranch in Bonhommo county yesterday says that in Cooley's heavy timber he counted 200 head of frozen cattle, besidess a large number of hogs. On a section known by the Bohemlans as Weiborney's Land, north of Tabor, through which a small creek runs, 140 head of cattle frozen stiff were counted. Farmers say that dead cattle and hogs in large numbers may be seen on every side of the road between Yankton and Bonhomme. The loss on stock seems to be greatest through that section. The body of Frantz Weisener, who was found frozen to death near Utica, was brought to this city this morning to await the arrival of relatives from St. Helena, Neb. The corpse was frozen stiff and when struck gave forth a metallic sound. Divided into counties, the fatalitles so far are: Hutchinson, sevon; Yankton, three; Borthomme, eight; Clayton, four; Turner seven, All persons missing at this date since the storm may be classed among the victims of the blizzard. This will largoly increase the death roll.

In lowa.

DUBUQUE, Iowa, Jan. 19.—The fatalities of the late blizzard on the prairie districts of Iowa are being gradually made public. Byron Cleveland, of Manchester, Delaware county, has received information that his two sons, aged fifteen and seventeen years, were frozen to death during the storm, together with ninety head of cattle. The boys were driving the cattle to water, about a mile from the house, when the blizzard struck them, and their dead bodles have just been found. The cattle were frozen stiff,

John Olney was found in a snow drift near Marathon, frozen dead. Miss Mae Henning and a boy named Julius, twelve years old, started in a sleigh to attend a party, in company with two young men. When the storm struck them they lost their way, and the young men deserted the lady and the boy, and reached a farm house in safety. The deserted pair remained out in the storm all night, and ln the morning they were found partially covered with snow. The young lady will lose both legs, and the boy's hands and feet were badly frozen. He was saved from death by the brave girl, who wrapped him in the only

Boone, Iowa, Jan. 19.-The worst blockaded road in Iowa is the St. Louis, Des Moines & Northern, which has not had a train over its line since last Wednesday and little prospects of having one for several days yet. Accident-And It Happons. BONHAM, Tex., Jan. 19.—The cannon-ball train from the east on the Texas & Pacific rallroad, which was due here Monday night at 10 o'clock, was thrown from the track in Bois d'Arc bottom, two miles east of town, and did not arrive until 2 o'clock Tuesday morning. The train, which consisted of baggage car, two coaches and a sleeper, was running at the rate of about fifteen miles an hour over the trestle that spans the bottom, when the ralls spread and caused the engine, baggage car and one coach to leave the track. Fortunately the cars did not fall off the trestle, which was twenty feet high, thereby avoiding a terrible catastrophe. No one was seriously injured. A peculiar circumstance in connection with the accident is that the regular engineer for No. 41, David Lasler, was to pull the cannon-ball that night, but on being called at Texarcana to take charge of his engine flatly refused to go out, giving as his reason: that he had dreamed that the cannon-ball would be wrecked between Texarkana and Bonham. The English rule election, and the contest has ended just in India is essentially a parental one. The Indian political agent is generally a military officer who has earned for himself the confidence of the government without ever having run any serious risk to either life or limb. He is invariably a very astute soldier, invariably enters into diplomacy as a poor man with a large and shabbily arrayed family, but always leaves the service with an immense fortune and a considerable estate in England. Sometimes the political agent and the native sovereign do not live amicably. Then trouble ensues, and the independent king or princeling goes to the wall.

Briefly stated, the political agent is expected to do but two things. One is that he keep the evil passions of the king, to whose court he is accredited, from stirring up strife and embarking in any hostile enterprise accumulate wealth and be civil to all European visitors of good standing.

THE IDLE LUXURY. This, then, is the only bugbear that haunts the Indian ruler. Otherwise he is the most independent monarch in the world. It is true that he cannot wage war, nor make treaties, nor enter into political relations with foreign powers, but the Indian king of today has generally no inclination for such arduous undertakings. He has soldiers aud forts and canons and improved weapons, but these are merely appendages of royalty and would be dangerous to him, only that his army is kept under control by his allies, the English, who have a military cautonment conveniently near his capital. Sometimes there are military outbreaks, notably in the state of Haiderabad, whose nizam has in his pay one or two regiments of Arab cavalry, which frequently mutiny. The maharajah of Gwalior is indubitably the most dangerous THE Frankfort correspondent of the of these sovereign allies. He is a man of military lustincts, and has an army, it is said, that could in an emergency show a roster of 300,000 men. After the Franco-Prussian war his royal highness reorganized his army upon the German system, completely discarding that of the French, which had before been his model, and so far did he carry his conhis service, on the ground that a nation which niet with such terrible defeat in so

> The early life of a native king is not, perhaps, the very best school in the world to fester the noble qualities that may be inherited in a man's character. The zenana is a hotbed of intrigue. It is the part of the palace which is set aside for women, and as there are a few hundred of these royal wives, each of them perhaps with one or more sons, and each of them desperately auxious for his welfare, there is no doubt that the heir apwrent runs more risk of being strangled or radio than children of meaner origin. When he grows into manhood his father, whose regular course of immoralltles makes him a age are just entering into the enjoyment of life, is jealous of him, and often as not tries to get rid of his eldest born by murder, and as often as not succeeds, for there is hardly

SPECIMEN INDIAN KINOS.

It has been my good fortune to have seen everal of these gentlemen, both in the splenlor of durbar and in private. In public they are imposing. Their gorgeous dress, their diamonds and their precious stones heaped in the most negligent profusion upon their perons, make them most striking and impressive figures. Diamonds stud their sword hilts; they wear diamond waistbands, diamond aigrettes, diamond neckfaces, diamond sprinhled shoes. Indeed, an Indian kink in his full regalia is the king of the childish imagination. But divest an Indian king of his ornumentation and seek him in the privacy of his own apartments and you will find a meager man with a little white cloth about his loins, liberally smeared with grease, and obsequiously waited upon by women whose seautiful but scantily draped figures are for grace of motion unequaled in the world. Singular as it may appear that women, whose life is but an immoral slavery, should exercise so powerful an influence over these men, it is from the harem that emanates most cl the mischiel done in India. Squatted upon 4 pile of luxurious carpets, with his long hukah tube in his mouth, much bejeweled and diamond crusted, with women playing with his hair or tickling his royal feet, serving him with sweet sherbets and singing to him lascivious songs, accompanied with the dance, surrounded with gossip and flattery, this scion of former powerful rulers passes the noonday heats in the underground apartments.—San Francisco Chronicle.

The Mania for Gambling.

The mania for gambling in and around Wall street is illustrated in queer ways. In recent walks in that part of the city I have heard bets made upon the color of men's eyes, upon the length of a man's mustache or the number of hairs in his eyebrows. It is a common occurrence which took place at Delmonico's, where I lunched with a well known man about town. He was accosted by a friend, who pulled a roll of bills out of his pocket and, holding up a $10 bill, asked the question: "Odd or even?" "Odd," said my friend, and when the number on the note was inspected and found to end with an odd figure the bill was passed over into his possession with as little ceremony as one would hand a nickel to a beggar. The queerest bit of betting of which I have heard recently was made in a party of men and women who were dining at Delmonico's. They had fallen Into a discussion about false hair, when one of the young women dashingly dared the men present to say whether she were a false front or not. Her companion offered to bet $10 that the bang was false. A man across the table took up the bet. The girl looked at her escort with somewhat of dismay, as much as to say: "You wretch, you are about to expose me." Without a word he pulled out a pocketbook, drew a $10 bill from it and passed it over the table, saying to the other man: "You have won the bet. The young lady has satisfied me that she wears only her own hair." His gallantry was re-warded with a rare and grateful look and smile from the young woman.-New York Tribuue.

THE EIGHTH CLUB.

Kansas City Will Play in the American Hase Hall Association.

CINCINNATI, Jan. 19,-The important question of filling the American Association vncancy has been settled by the admission of Kansas City. Whitfleld received a telegram from Kansas City telling him to make the best terms possible and they would be satisfactory. It did not take long to close the bargain. Kansas City agrees to furnish a $10,000 bond to fulfill all obligations entered into and to furnish transportation for the visiting clubs from St. Louis and return. The Metropolitan franchise was retained by the Association, so that any club may be placed in New York. The new club will be given now on the market.

The following list of players has been submitted to Kansas City to choose from: Pitchers—Porter, Toole, Harkins, Lynch, Fagin, Morrison and Cunningham. Catchers—Donabue, Kinslow and Greer. Fielders-Jones, inson, Davis and Cross. From this lot a first class club can be chosen. The new club will be organized at ouce.

Death of a Miser.

WARREN, O., Jan. 19.—The coroner to-day was summoned to Girard, where in his hut, where he had lived a miser's life for twenty years, was found the body of David Prince. He lay upon the floor, and as he was known to have much money, foul play was feared. The curious people begnn to ransack the place for treasure, and found in a chink $120 in currency and $1,000 in notes and mortgages. While tearing up the floor, which disclosed an underground passage, the authorities took possession of the premises, The coroner thinks Price dled from exposure.

Terrible Fire at a Christening. Mount Carmo, Pa., Jan. 19.—At 5 o'elock Tuesday morning fire consumed a row of seven frame houses here occupied by Hungarians. Three men were burned to death and a woman and child are missing. The fire originated in a house where a Hungarian christening was being celebrated, and it is supposed was caused by drunken inmates upsetting a stove. The loss is estimated at $10,000. A runior, which lacks confirmation, was current that the three men were killed in a quarrel and that the house was burned to hide the crime.

RAVENNA, O., Jan. 19.-John Lyons, a brakeman on the Pittsburg & Western railroad, fell from his train, going at a rapid rate of speed. After lying on the track some time he managed to crawl to a farmer's house more dead than alive. It is thought he will recover.

The Mixer of Drinks.

This is a busy age and a busy country, and people do not want to be given unnecessary trouble through the stupidity of the mixer of their drinks. Just in the middle of a good story, or just as the point of an anecdote has been arrived at, the stupid bartender gets the orders mixed and is compelled to ask everybody again or serve you something you never thought of ordering. He interrupts the company without compunction of conscience, and the company and story are utterly broken up and knocked endwise. He becomes unduly familiar, but nevertheless never fails to forget the sort of drink you like, never remembers your name, gives you vichy justead of seltzer to mix with your liquor, and in a dozen other ways makes you wish he was a 1.000 miles away or else understood his busi-

The Government Endeavoring to Stop the Rush of the Outgoing Human Tide-The Austro-Russian Frontier Soon to Become the Scene of a Bloody Conflict

LONDON, Jan. 19.—One thing can be surely depended upon as a consequence of the war rumors in Europe, that there will be such an emigration from Germany to the United States in the coming spring as was never wituessed before. Information to this effect somes from so many sources that it would seem that all the discontented who are so circumstanced that they can possibly get awny from the country will do so. The men, young and middle-aged, drilled into machine-like statidity, as they are, do not admire the prospect of being shot at any more, than the inhabitants of less warlike nations would, and the most strenuous efforts are being made by the civil and military bureaucracy of the government to discourage and prevent the rush of the outgoing human tide. Difficulties are thrown in the way of disposing of landed or other property, the lists of persons liable to military service are kept with the most scrupulous exactness, the frontier towns and seaports swarm with spies and detectives, and one steamship line, at least, has been refused permission to add extra vessels to its service.

The journals publish the most discouraging reports concerning American trade, the strikes prevalent there, outrages committed on foreigners, and the difficulty of their procuring work; but these are rendered nugatory by the letters from friends and relatives which give a truthful account of matters there, so that the intending emigrant is enabled to choose a suitable time for his voyage to the land of the free.

The Austrian states do not throw so many impediments in the way of those of their subjects, who wish to expatriate themselves, and the many Bohemians and Hungarinns who have returned with, to them, considerable sums of money, have inoculated their former neighbors with the fever of emigra tion. These people generally go to the mining regions, and whether the strikes there continue or not, thousands will be on their way thither in a few months.

It is not strange that those who are regarded by their rulers as only so much food for powder should hasten to get away from the place which threatens to become soon the scene of a bloody conflict. No one believes in any assurance of a continued peace. Tennyson's line of "The nations snarling at each others' heels," was never more applicable than now, and the tension is so strong on the Austro-Russian frontler that many believe it best that the inevitable contest there should be fought out at once, thereby probably securing the peace of Europe for a score of years to come.

Both the Russian and Austrian troops on the border are suffering almost as severely in their improvised quarters as if actual conflict usually cold and tempestuous, the quarters furnished unfit for men or horses, and the commissarist abomluable. As a consequence diseases incident to these causes have been almost epidemic, and the death rnte admittedly enormous, though it is claimed that tobacco tax. the authorities have suppresed the publica-tion of the real number of losses.

Frontier Forces Compared.

BERLIN, Jan. 19 - The Militar Wochenblatt publishes with authority a reply to the really those of her husband. Invalide Russe's late comparison of the frontler forces. It says that nuthentic estimates of the peace effective stationed in the frontier provinces of Austria, Russia and Germany show that Russia has 315,500 men with 689 field guns, Austria 38,000 men with 160 field guns, and Germany 98,200 men with 338 field guns. The Wochenblatt next compares the inilitary situation on the Russian side of the frontier with that on the German side, taking the forces within territories of about equal area, and shows that the Russians within 118,311 square kilometers have 123,275 men, 24,198 horses and 2,711 guns of all kinds, while the Germans, within 119,456 square kllometers, have only 81,714 men, 14,520 horses and 738 guns. The garrison of Warsaw, consisting of 20,000 men, 3,600 horses and fifty field guns, is contrasted with the garrison of Koenigsberg, consisting of 7,700 men, 1,400 horses and fifty field guns, and the garrison of Breslau, with 5,000 men, 1,660 horses and thirty-two field guns. Referring to the Invalide Russe's assertion that 4,850 kilometers of railroad have been constructed in eastern Germany since 1878, the Wochenblatt says that the railroad extension since 1878 amounts to only 18,600 kilometers.
